Great Chicago, Illinois
Hanging Too Good
Mr. Lasker's Million
By Arthur Brisbane

ELKHART, IND., Jan. 19.—
After a rainy morning in Chicago, this is written on the 20th Century, board East through rainy Indiana. Some Chicago citizens worry needlessly about Chicago's crime news. The news nearly always tells of criminals killing other criminals, a cause for rejoicing, not grief.

This morning attention turns to Gangster Jack Guzik, chief lieutenant for Scarface Al Capone, now riding in Florida. In Capone's absence Guzik's Harry Fuller, 25 years old, from South Bend, Ind., organized a hijacking crew, held up and robbed Capone's bootleg wagon.

Such things cannot be tolerated, so Mr. Guzik kidnapped Harry Fuller and two of his associates, Joseph Gagliardo, aged 15, and Joseph Passo, aged 21. All three were "taken for a ride" Fuller and Passo thrown out at one place, Gagliardo at another, all dead, of course.

When weapons kill rats or gangsters kill gangsters, the good should rejoice.

Let Chicago and other cities beset with crime problems ask this question:

How can you expect to deal adequately with criminals through your police and detective forces when profits on bootlegging enable criminals to pay policemen and detectives five times as much as the city pays them?

A Chicago chief of police testified that more than half his men were engaged in bootlegging.

Securely organized crime will last as long as secretly organized bootlegging, and that probably will last as long as prohibition.

Chicago, growing with extraordinary rapidity, solving its traffic and other problems more energetically and efficiently than any other city, sets an example to the rest of the country.

And the big State of Illinois, having $100,000,000 on State bonds in addition to $32,500,000 county bonds for hard roads, has nearly 5,000 miles of such roads. These figures are printed to oblige Messrs. J. H. Forrest and James P. Barker, proud Chicago citizens.

Earliest men and women write: "Why do you oppress capital punishment? Isn't hanging or electrocution too good for a vile murderer? How can you frighten murderers if you don't kill them? Yes, hanging is too good, especially for a kidnapping murderer. But hanging and the electric chair, as prison superintendents

NEW YORK WELCOMES COSGRAVE

New York, Jan. 20 (A.P.).—With placard-bearing supporters of the opposition party elected from Battery Park, by police to avert possible disorder, President William T. Cosgrave of the Irish Free State stepped onto American soil today.

Three thousand police had been marshaled along the line of march to City Hall, where Mayor Walker waited to greet the visiting President. In the name of our President, a large proportion of the crowd from your own "Donalds," but no unfriendly demonstration materialized along the route.

The second incident occurred shortly before the city tug Macomb with the Irish President and the Mayor's welcoming committee had left. Three men and a woman

Extra 0 in Cosgrave On N. Y. Badges Amuses Party

New York, Jan. 20 (A.P.).—As President Cosgrave of the Irish Free State was being taken from the liner Hanover today, one member of his party was seen to look closely at the gold badge worn by the reception committee, whisper to his colleagues and join in a general burst of laughter.

Inspection of the badge showed that the Irish President's name had been spelled "Cosgrave" in raised letters of gold. When this spelling was called to the attention of Cosgrave, who is chairman of the welcome committee, he remarked: "What a stupid error!"

RANSOM DEMAND FOR LOST COLLEGE GIRL RECEIVED BY FATHER

Northampton, Jan. 20.—A demand for ransom from a person who wrote that Frances St. John Smith was held by kidnapers in New York city has been received by St. John Smith, father of the missing college student. The amount of ransom demanded was not made public.

Northampton, Jan. 20.—A woman detective employed by State officials today questioned Miss Joy Kimball, intimate friend of the missing Frances St. John Smith and her roommate at Milton Academy last year.

In the hope that Miss Kimball, already questioned at length by State Detective Joseph V. Daly and college authorities, might be able to recall some little incident in the Smith College student's life that might provide the key to her strange disappearance, the woman operative spent some time with the college girl.

Additional evidence that State officials have thrown every resource into the investigation of the case was provided in the appearance of Francis St. John Smith, father of the missing Frances St. John Smith, at the college.

Commissioner Fiske left for Boston following the conference, but it was learned that he would return here tonight.

The appearance of the woman operative revealed by the State came at the beginning and at the conclusion of the meeting, the commissioner announced there was "nothing new and no definite lead."

"Naturally they have hopes she is still alive," he said. "They expressed perfect satisfaction with the way the investigation has progressed and complimented Detective Daly, I am Please Turn to Page 2, Column 1.

ADMIT HAVERHILL SHOE TIE-UP NEAR COMPLETE

Haverhill, Jan. 20 (A.P.).—A general strike involving the Haverhill shoe industry with over 5,000 shoe workers walking the streets in protest of a recent reduction in wages. Almost complete loss of the industry is admitted by the manufacturers. No overture have been made by either shoe men or the strikers. The strike is the most successful since the Haverhill shoe industry was organized. The Haverhill shoe manufacturers' Association, representing 10 of the largest factories in the city and employing three-fourths of the shoe workers of the city, is making no move to negotiate with the union. No action, anticipated on the part of the shoe men to compel the union to lower wage demands, has not been materialized. Counsel in the person of John J. Ryan has been consulted, but no public statement made. The manufacturers are Please Turn to Page 2, Column 1.

PERSONAL TELEPHONE SERVICE

Call the Supervisor [or Dial Operator]

Only a small proportion of the 2,000,000 telephone calls we handle daily, here in Metropolitan Boston, fail to go through swiftly and surely.

In analyzing the causes of imperfect calls, we find that in nearly every case the necessary remedy can best be applied in the local operating room.

Lapses from what you regard as good service we are ready and willing to correct; but to discuss them with your own operator is not the most effective way.

She can cure a wrong number, or a cut-off; but if such error is repeated, or should your service trouble seem to require more individual attention, ask for the Supervisor, or dial Operator.

In a manual office the Supervisor, and in a dial office the Operator, is on the job at all times. Either can be reached quickly. Both have the means and the authority to get action—whether to get one stray call back on the right track, or to correct any laxness in the service. To untangle service difficulties, tell them the essential facts.

Should the Supervisor fail to satisfy you, talk with your Service Representative in the Business Office.

If the weakness still seems chronic, the Manager should be notified. He, or someone authorized to represent him, can be reached by telephone at any time, if you will simply call for "Business Office."

WOMAN WANTS SHARPER EDGE ON DRY LAW TEETH

AGAIN FOOTLIGHT STAR

LURED BY PART IN BROADWAY PRODUCTION

Following the inner circles of Boston society, Mrs. Alex Henry Higginson, third wife of the son of the founder of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, returns Monday to the footlights which she forsook three years ago for matrimony.

Under the maiden name of Mary Newcomb she opens at the Holbrook Theatre, New York, in "The Distant Drum," a new drama by Vincent Lawrence. For some months past Mrs. Higginson has maintained a New York apartment, forsaking the Higginson estate at Lincoln and interesting herself in the theatre. For a week Higginson has been with her, watching the final rehearsal.

Mary Newcomb was married to Higginson in the Unitarian Church at Concord in 1925. The ceremony was simple, owing to the death earlier in the year of Higginson's second wife, Jeanne Callucci, who also won fame on the stage.

The third Mrs. Higginson was the third wife of Robert Edison prominent on stage and screen. She divorced him on the grounds that he was too interested in some lovely screen stars and failed to provide. When she was married to Higginson she said she was through with the stage forever, but the lure of the footlights has proved too great. As Mary Newcomb she was starred in several Broadway vehicles. Higginson's first wife was Rosamund Tudor of Boston, who divorced him in 1904.

Customs Men to Meet

The annual dinner of the Customs Inspectors' Association will be held at the Boston Chamber of Commerce, on the evening of Jan. 28. Collectors W. W. Latham, ex-Mayor John F. Fitzgerald and Frank S. Davis, manager of the Maritime Association will be speakers.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick W. Enwright. He is publisher of a Lynn newspaper and charges his chauffeur and three other men, "El Jah," "the Cannonball" and the "Snake," kidnaped him and have threatened his family. Enwright's plight was in court. Her daughter was said to be in hiding under guard from the kidnappers.

5 YEARS IN JAIL FOR FOOTLESS, HER PLAN

Washington, Jan. 20 (A.P.)—Legislation to strengthen the courts' power in sentencing bootleggers and rum-runners was urged today before a House Judiciary subcommittee by Assistant Attorney-General Mabel Walker Willebrandt.

Mrs. Willebrandt endorsed a bill by Representative Stabler, Republican, New York, which would strengthen the Volstead act by providing a fine up to $10,000 or imprisonment up to five years, or both, for illegal manufacture, sale or transportation of liquor.

The Volstead act imposes six months' imprisonment or a fine up to $1,000 or both for these offenses, she said.

The hands of the courts are tied at present when a large liquor offender is arraigned, she declared. "This maximum fine and imprisonment enable the judges to impose sentences commensurate with the offense and will hit directly at the big bootleggers."

"At the same time it leaves to the judges discretionary power to impose small sentences where the cases are not of a serious nature. This means the man who is caught with a half pint of liquor in his automobile will not receive the sentence of a felon."

CROWD SEES HORSE SAVED FROM SEWER BY DERRICKS

With only his front legs, head and neck above the street, "Jeffrey," a big white horse, was helplessly trapped in a sewer at Cottage and Everett streets, East Boston, for an hour and a half today, while firemen and telephone company repair men tried to effect his rescue. A crowd gathered to look on. Derrick finally lifted him out.

The horse, one of two attached to a milk wagon driven by Michael Joyce, slipped into the sewer when the cover of the sewer gave away. He was taken to the St. P. C. Hospital, where, although seriously strained, he is expected to recover.

TRAP CADDY IN $1,000 DEL MONTE DEATH PLOT

Del Monte, Cal., Jan. 20 (A.P.)—A plot to extort $1,000 from Mrs. F. G. Tamm, wife of a Chicago physician, by means of death threats, was under investigation today while Andrew Henkel, 17-year-old caddy on the Del Monte golf links, was being held pending determination of his part in the affair.

Henkel was trapped when he took a decoy envelope from the stand in a tea box where Mrs. Tamm had been ordered to hide the money. He said a man dressed in an army hat and blouse and civilian trousers had offered him $5 to get the envelope.

Their plans went amiss, however. Angela's parents arrived on the Tampico airport just as the plane was disappearing in the distance. They rushed back to police court and had an order for their daughter's arrest telegraphed to Mexico City police headquarters.

SENATE ADDS TO UNWRITTEN LAW IN SMITH CASE

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON, International News Service Staff Correspondent.

Washington, Jan. 20.—A new "unwritten law," barring from the Senate men elected through the expenditure of great campaign funds, was driving on the statute books today as a result of the Senate's action in excluding Frank L. Smith (R.), of Illinois.

For the first time in its history, the Senate denied a seat to a senator-elect holding legal credentials, on the ground that excessive campaign expenditures tainted his election with "fraud and corruption."

In excluding Smith, the Senate for the first time in its history, the Senate denied a seat to a senator-elect holding legal credentials, on the ground that excessive campaign expenditures tainted his election with "fraud and corruption."

The vote counting Smith was so overwhelming that it surprised even his opponents. It was 81 to 23, with twenty-one Republicans, one former laborer and thirty-nine Democrats voting against him, while but two Democrats and twenty-one Republicans voted for him.

Illinois was left with but one Senator as a result of the Senate's action. Authorities here were agreed that the next move is up to Governor Len Small of Illinois, who can appoint a temporary successor to Smith pending a special election, to fill the vacancy or simply permit the vacancy to exist until another Congress convenes, when Smith might try again to enter the Senate.

The preponderance of opinion here was that Small would appoint a successor, owing to the trouble and expense of a special election. The case against Senator-elect William S. Vare (R.) of Pennsylvania was practically settled by the Smith vote, according to leaders in both sides. The Senate committee on privileges and elections is holding the Vare case in abeyance and probably will not have a report ready for months.

SEEK PROBE OF 'RAILROADED' VETS' CASE

Expressing the fear that New England veterans of the World War may be held in a Washington insane asylum, railroaded there, though they are not insane, officials of the Massachusetts Department of the Veterans of Foreign Wars sent notices to Massachusetts Senators and Representatives demanding that an inquiry be set on foot and an investigation of the asylum in question.

The protest was born after the publication of a magazine article charging that beneficiaries of the United States Veterans' Bureau, had been "railroaded to the asylum."

The telegram sent by State Senator David I. Walsh, Congressman Edith Nourse Rogers and William F. Conner, Jr., also to John J. Bennett, Jr., chairman of the National Legislative Committee of the V. F. W., follows:

"Furious lest Massachusetts women and other veterans may have been among those railroaded as insane to St. Elizabeth's, Washington, on letters ordering their commitment without court hearing, given by General Hines of Veterans' Bureau, so as to help relatives secure their property, the Massachusetts Department of the Veterans of Foreign Wars feels Congressional investigation necessary of this arbitrary power of Hines and bureau."

SAYS AMERICA MUST BUILD TRADE FLEET

Washington, Jan. 19 (A.P.)—The Geneva naval arms conference was described in the House today by Representative Wood, Republican Indiana, as a "complete fiasco," brought about because the United States had no ships to scrap or construct work to stop.

Wood asserted the failure came in spite of the "fact that England must have abandoned the further construction of additional cruisers, thus maintaining in greater degree the ratio agreed upon five years ago."

The Indiana member, who heads the House appropriations subcommittee that passes upon shipping, said that the time had come "when we must embark upon a mercantile marine program that will establish this country in the eyes of the world."

He urged action upon a bill introduced by himself and designed to build up a merchant marine under the American flag.

"We have sacrificed world naval supremacy and world maritime commercial supremacy," Wood contended, "and in addition through private loans our former allies have obtained $1,000,000,000, on small portion of which is obviously being used in the building up of European navies, as well as their merchant fleets, with which America must compete for world trade in time of peace and fight against in time of war."

Many great West Coast cities only a few hundred miles are situated away from the Pacific Ocean, said the congressman.

NORTH ADAMS CHIEF ENFORCES CURFEW LAW

North Adams, Jan. 20—Acting under orders of Chief Conlon to enforce the 9 o'clock curfew law, police started a campaign to curb juvenile delinquency. Several cases of petty thefts and other offenses recently proved the chief to take this drastic action.

JUDGE TO RULE ON DOG'S FATE IN DEATH CASE

Mr. Sterling, Kan., Jan. 20 (A.P.)—The life of "Kaiser Bill," German shepherd dog, ended in the hands of Circuit Judge Henry H. Prewitt, who announced that he will give a written decision of the animal's fate to-day. "Kaiser Bill" was sentenced to death several weeks ago by County Judge Earl W. Bent for killing six sheep belonging to Prewitt Young.

Mr. and Mrs. William Henry Prewitt, owners of the dog, appealed the sentence and a hearing was granted in Circuit Court.

W. B. White, attorney for the defense, said: "There is no existing statute under which a dumb brute can be tried for an act of the kind in question. The Legislature is without authority to enact into a law any provision imposing corporal punishment."

Continuing, Mr. White said that "to take a dog's life would be in violation of the constitution of the State and the nation. The dog is property and has the right to all property safeguards."

"If the law justifies the taking of this dog's life, then you might try a cow who has been slain for infanticide, or a steer that has killed a comical not his own for wilful trespass."

Mr. White contended that the recourse was through a suit for damages, and no other way.

The dog was not in court, being retained at home as ordered by the trial court some weeks ago.

CHURCH UNION ROW STIRS ENGLAND

London, Jan. 20 (A.P.)—The new paper, which has been revised by the House of Bishops, is being received as a contender for the title of newspaper by Commons, will be issued tomorrow, and controversy within the Church of England will flare again.

The situation has been further complicated by the publication of the "Maltese Conversations" concerning the prospect of union between the Anglican and Roman Catholic churches. These will undoubtedly be used up the supporters of the union to support their hostility to what they regard as the tendency of the Anglo-Catholics toward Rome.

Although the recent papal encyclical seemed to nullify the advance of the Anglo-Catholics, unionists believe further attempts will be made, therefore remain critical.

LEADERS TALK FREELY.

Leaders of the religious bodies concerned are freely expressing their opinions.

The Right Rev. Ernest William Barnes, Bishop of Birmingham, who is one of the leaders of the opposition to the Anglo-Catholic side in the present controversy, is quoted as saying: "I am not prepared to admit the Roman Church into our communion until the Vatican reforms more than its theology."

SPURT IDEA OF UNION.

The possibility of union was usually ascribed by the Roman Catholics. Father Woodcock, a prominent Jesuit priest, said:

"The Maltese error is very misleading. It deliberately smokes the crowd of the fundamental differences between the two churches."

"If union of Rome and Canterbury ever comes, it will be through the acceptance of such claims, which are scandalous, not only to the Roman Church, but to the Anglican Church."

The presentists claim the Maltese report strengthened their position. They also argue that the attitude of the people throughout the country was shown when Commons, by rejecting the revised prayer book, interpreted the convictions of Anglicans far more accurately than the church assembly.

Lumber for 22 Houses in Giant Sequoia, 308 Feet High

Sacramento, Cal., Jan. 20 (A.P.)—A tree containing enough lumber to build 22 houses, an average size today was officially recognized as a contender for the title of monarch of California forests.

The State Department of Natural Resources announced that the giant sequoia near Grinnell, Humboldt County, was 308 feet high, 20 feet in diameter and containing 301,266 board feet of merchantable lumber.

Sore throat waits here also

After long exposure to bad weather, after sudden changes of temperature, after mingling with crowds—gargle with Listerine, the safe antiseptic, when you get home.

This pleasant precaution has nipped many a cold and sore throat in the bud, before they became serious.

Listerine, being antiseptic, immediately attacks the countless bacteria that lodge in the mouth and throat where so many colds start. It is important, however, that you use it early—and frequently.

Most of the fall and winter months are "sore throat months" and for your own protection use Listerine night and morning. It is a good habit to acquire. Lambert Pharmaceutical Company, St. Louis, Mo., U. S. A.

REWARD INCREASE SEEN AS LAST RESORT MOVE

time that during her vacation spent at the family home, No. 129 East Seventh street, the girl acted in a manner so strange that her parents prevailed upon her to visit a specialist. This the girl did and following a thorough examination was pronounced physically fit, and returned to her studies here.

INSISTED ON GOING BACK.

Her wealthy father, however, was not entirely satisfied with the report and following it discussed with the young woman the advisability of extending her stay at home. Francis would not hear of such a plan and it was finally abandoned.

Young Smith's trip to New York is relevant to these disclosures, it is believed, but whether the detective accompanied him as a body guard or merely to aid the boy in his plans, is not known.

For two or three days past, since he was called here by his parents from his studies at Gordon, young Smith has entertained an idea that the day, if not the night, would be passed held to some extent by the police. He has been told that the police are looking for a girl, and he has been told that the police are looking for a girl, and he has been told that the police are looking for a girl.

Mr. Smith, seldom in the best of health, is in a state bordering on collapse today. Her hopes were great, but she has been told that the police are looking for a girl, and he has been told that the police are looking for a girl, and he has been told that the police are looking for a girl.

HOLD SUICIDE THEORY.
The first aim "tip" reaching the investigators since the reward was increased tenfold by the girl's father yesterday was a note received from Pittsburgh, Pa. Alphonse officials there in a little hope, they are checking a signature on a Pittsburgh hotel register with the last writing of the missing girl.

Recently the main exterior of the college here is an underground of thousands and countless. Among the undergraduates there is a strong feeling that Miss Smith was abducted and this apprehension is in some measure shared by their parents.

That the college authorities themselves share this apprehension is not known.

some extent is attested by the fact that a group of students who were planning a week-end visit to Cornell University have been ordered to postpone their plans.

CORRETT OFFERS AID.

James H. Corbett of Udon, N. Y., father of Alice Corbett, South College junior, whose disappearance on November 12, 1925, is regarded as a parallel to the Smith case, once offered aid to Mr. and Mrs. Smith.

The offer was made in a letter written to State Detective Daily, whose efforts to locate his daughter, though still unsuccessful, are praised. Corbett that he presented Daily with a costly gold watch.

Corbett wrote: "I have been following reports in the newspapers regarding the disappearance of Frances St. John Smith and the untiring efforts her parents are making in trying to locate her. It seems so very strange that this should occur on Friday the 13th, and so similar to the disappearance of my daughter."

"I know that you are doing everything in your power to aid in the search. There does not seem to be much of anything that I can say or do to help Mr. Smith, but if there is I certainly want you to convey to him my sincere sympathy and tell him I shall be only too glad to assist if there is anything I can do."

WATCH FOR CORRETT GIRL.
"I still have the $1,000 deposited in the Hampshire County Trust Company, Northampton. I would be glad to have this mentioned in the newspapers, as my wife and I can never give my own search. If there is any chance of finding her remains in the field or streams in that vicinity, I would be glad to have you do what you can to bring this matter to the attention of the authorities of the district from the work in any way to direct the search for Mr. Smith's daughter."

Letter Tells Where to Look for Missing Girl

Smith Girl Lived in Slain Sylvia Gaines' Room

Already one strange coincidence in the disappearance of Frances St. John Smith from South College has been noted, namely that the New York girl disappeared on Friday the Thirteenth, the same date that marked the disappearance of Alice Corbett from South College two years ago.

Now comes another trade link of coincidence. Frances St. John Smith occupied in Dewey House the same room once occupied by Sylvia Gaines, South College girl who was slain by her father, Wallace E. Gaines, in Olympia, Washington. Miss Gaines was a Lyndon field girl.

was a student last year, and the McLean Hospital in Belmont was searched today for Frances St. John Smith, missing. South College student, as a result of information received, immediately contacted H. Crowley of the Boston police.

The information reaching Superintendent Crowley was contained in a letter on fine white stationery mailed two days ago in Vineyard Haven.

The letter was anonymous, with the heading "Three-Star Malt Syrup" and "Don't der stuff" and a drawing of a man in a suit.

ten by a girl, according to handwriting experts, and said that Miss Smith might be found working as a maid either at the academy or the hospital.

The text of the letter was as follows: "The missing young woman may be found in Milton Academy or McLean Hospital acting as a maid just for notoriety. If she should be found in either of these places I claim the reward. Enlist them."

Superintendent Crowley was in touch with Chief James Travers of Milton and Chief J. T. Argy of Belmont, requesting that a thorough search of the institutions be made.

On the spot, try that the minute may have been written by the Smith girl, but Crowley will make a check of the handwriting with that of the missing girl and communicate with the Vineyard Haven authorities.

The letter was turned over to Inspector James Giffin in the town that might be productive of finger prints. Although the letter itself was written on white paper it was contained in a green envelope.

Tunney Says Boxing Is Universal Sport

Boxing, in my opinion, is the nearest thing to a universal sport that exists. It is the most natural sport, too, I find, because boys take to boxing more by instinct than to any other game.

FRISBY OFFERS REWARD FOR RETURN OF MISSING TEETH

Below fingerprints show Congressman Frisby's false teeth, which were stolen or dropped while he was hunting for the reading room in the Pennsylvania Station. Frisby has demanded that the District of Columbia police department locate his missing teeth in twenty-four hours or resign in a body. No questions will be asked.

WASHINGTON—I have been asked to write my own eye-witness story of the Missing Teeth Mystery.

Q. What is your full name?
A. Grismald (or Grismald) X.
Q. What is your present occupation?
A. Hunting for my teeth.
Q. Now tell in your own words just when you last remember seeing your teeth?
A. It was late in August—about the third, I should say—I happened to be passing the collection plate at an evangelistic meeting and I suddenly yawned.
Q. Were you in full possession of your teeth on the morning when you first missed them?
A. I can't recall—I dropped into a cafeteria and had a dish of tapioca and I never can tell when eating tapioca, whether I've got my teeth or not.
Q. Have you looked through your pockets?
A. I can't remember.

WOULD ROSE CHURCHES TO CUT WASTE

Cleveland, Jan. 20 (A.P.)—Representatives of 28 Protestant denominations, gathered here in a national church conference today, heard recommendations that they band themselves together in an effort to eliminate economic waste by discontinuing unnecessary church services prepared by Dr. Hermann N. Morse, of New York, he stated that the need for eliminating the overcharging of communities is drastic.

The idea is for the different denominations to agree on a common service which churches are to eliminate. One recommendation is that a field study be conducted to determine whether each denomination's church is being over-extended. The study is to be conducted by a committee of over-churchmen and the need for eliminating it is to be determined. The study is to be conducted by a committee of over-churchmen and the need for eliminating it is to be determined.

GRAINGER'S MODERN PROGRAM

By MOSES SMITH.
Percy Grainger, under an interesting program of other classes, is giving his students a modern program. He is giving his students a modern program. He is giving his students a modern program. He is giving his students a modern program.

Mr. Grainger is of such a strong individual mold that he cannot, even today when he is so well established, please all kinds of listeners. Yet his individuality is not offensive, on the contrary, it is refreshing. It is a music in unorthodox fashion. It is a music in unorthodox fashion. It is a music in unorthodox fashion.

Such a mind is a force for music progress and vitality in a world where there is always the danger of falling into a rut. It is a force for music progress and vitality in a world where there is always the danger of falling into a rut. It is a force for music progress and vitality in a world where there is always the danger of falling into a rut.

And even a Grainger, we must add, for the latter has certainly been able to hold his own in Boston, then on the present occasion, he played four Chopin Preludes, which arranged for the piano, beautifully, at other times unorthodox. The fact that he is so finely conceived in the Chopin Preludes and the last movement of the first but at other moments there are some things.

Two of Grainger's own arrangements, closed the program. He is giving his students a modern program. He is giving his students a modern program. He is giving his students a modern program. He is giving his students a modern program.
